It is being dismantled for McDowell Wellman, the dock construction planners and builders, from the outer end and the shoreward remnant of the dock, not pictured, is also being taken down. John Hannah Heads Foreign Aid Agency

Dr. John A. Hannah

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has picked John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State University and architect of its pioneer adventures in helping underdeveloped countries, to guide the nation's embattled foreign aid program.

Hannah, staunch Republican and long-time friend of President Nixon, was expected to submit his resignation to the Democratic-controlled MSU board of regents tonight.

But he indicated in a statement released in Detroit Monday night that problems of succession—former Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams was reportedly to take his place—could delay a "fulltime role in the federal government" until spring or later.

Administration sources in Washington confirmed Hannah's selection after announcement of two other high level appointments.

Appoint Allen

Dr. James E. Allen Jr., New York State commissioner of Education for the past 13 years, was named to the dual jobs of U.S. commissioner of education and assistant secretary of health, education and welfare.

Rita Hauser, 34-year-old lawyer, linguist and striking beauty, was named to the U.S. delegation to the United Nations with rank of ambassador.

Mrs. Hauser, cochairman of New Yorkers for Nixon during the campaign, will be the U.S. representative to the Human Rights Commission and Economic and Social Council.

Selection of the 66-year-old Hannah to head the Agency for International Development, puts a tough, no-nonsense businessman-educator in charge of an agency whose basic mission faces almost certain change.

Lowest Figure

Increasingly disgruntled Congresses have slashed away at the 22-year-old program so much in recent years that President Lyndon B. Johnson asked only $2.7 billion for it in his final budget.

That was the lowest figure ever sought for overseas assistance in its 22-year-old history and was widely regarded as indication Johnson was not against congressional—and some Nixon administration—suggestions the private sector assume a far bigger role.

During his 27-year reign as Michigan State president, Hannah pioneered involving universities in foreign aid. The University, currently active in six Asian countries, was the first to undertake a government contract to help build up the regime of the late South Vietnamese president, Ngo Dinh Diem.

Departure

By putting Allen in charge of U.S. education programs, Nixon has selected a man who pioneered busing of school children to correct racial imbalance in New York State schools.

Robert H. Finch, secretary of Health, education and welfare, said combining that job with the rank of HEW assistant secretary, was a "redical departure."

A native of West Virginia and graduate of its Davis and Elkins College, Allen has a doctorate from Harvard. He turned down the education commissioner's job under John F. Kennedy after giving it "serious thought."

"I happen to believe integration is an important element in getting quality education," Allen told newsmen Monday. He said he was against busing "unless it improves educational opportunity."

Nixon To Probe China Situation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the hard line he laid down on Red China policy last week, President Nixon plans to start a new diplomatic probe later this month into the possibility of improving U.S.-Peking relations.

Nixon is considering proposing to the Chinese regime that as a first step the two countries relax travel and communications barriers somewhat. Easing of the U.S. embargo on trade with the Chinese mainland might follow eventually.

Some State department officials believe there is an outside chance the Peking regime may be shifting its policy from a high degree of isolation to a more flexible position.

Coexistence

The very limited hope held by some experts is based on the fact that Communist China itself proposed last November that the next round of diplomatic talks with the United States should be held Feb. 20—a month after the Nixon administration took office.

The date, which the State Department accepted by agreement with President-elect Nixon's advisers at the time, was coupled with a Chinese proposal which some officials here considered hopeful that the two countries make an agreement "on the five principles for peaceful coexistence."

The principles include respect for territorial integrity, nonaggression, noninterference, equality and living together in peace. The United States and China have held unofficial meetings for several years in Warsaw, Poland.

Against Admittance

President Nixon was asked at his news conference a week ago about his "plans" for improving relations with Communist China. He immediately declared opposition to admitting the country to the United Nations under present circumstances. He also said he saw no prospect of any change in U.S. policy "until some changes occur on their side."

Despite this public posture, the President and his advisers are reported actively interested in finding out whether the Chinese may in fact be at a point of exploring new relations with the United States and possibly other countries.

In the Warsaw meeting, therefore, U.S. Ambassador Walter Stoessel Jr. probably will be authorized to suggest a lowering of travel barriers and an easing of limitations on other means of communication.

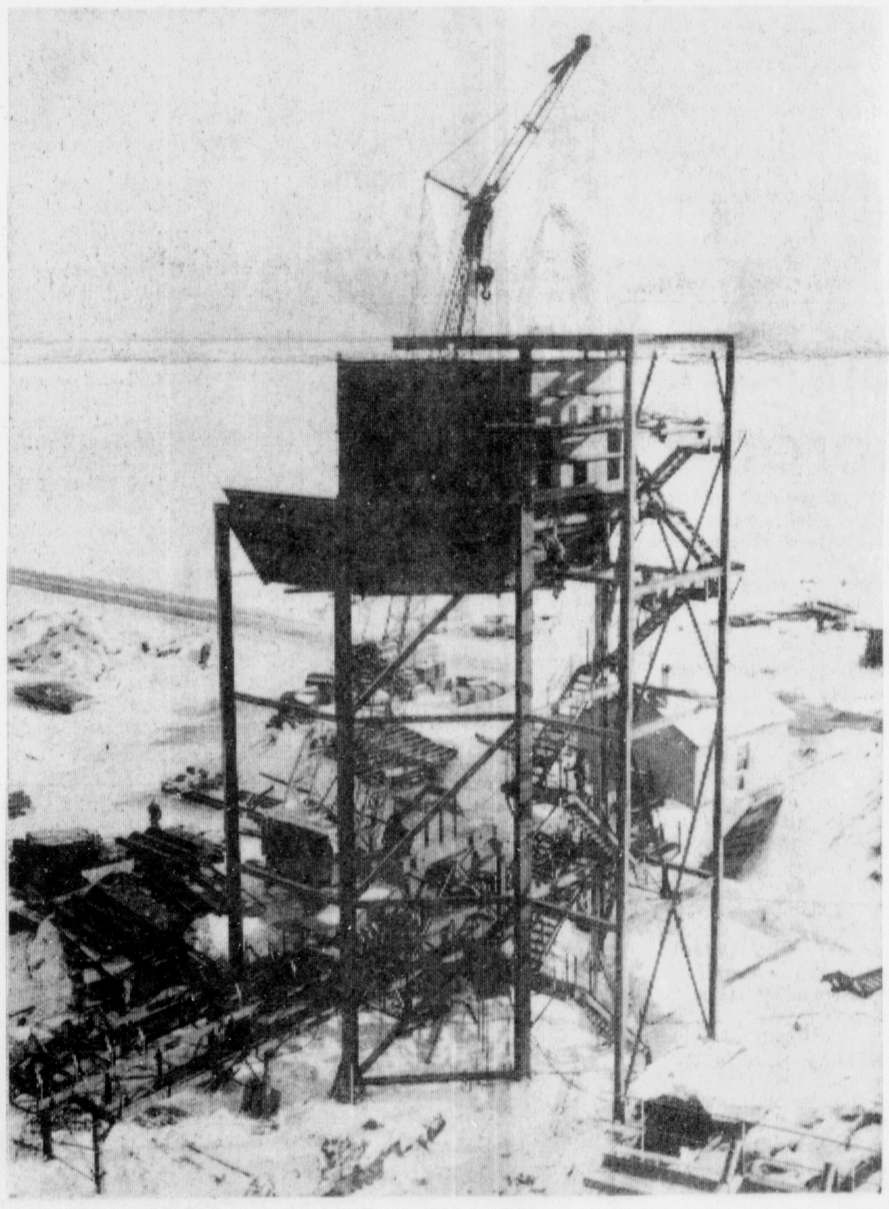
Moscow Talks

The Nixon administration's basic policy in this situation is said to be one of readiness for "friendly relations," with any country willing to reciprocate.

But the issues are far more complicated than that. The United States has itself been an issue of bitter controversy between Red China and the Soviet Union, and any move Washington makes is bound to be regarded suspiciously in Moscow as well as Peking.

Thus at a time when Nixon hopes to get active and successful cooperation with Moscow in making peace in the Middle East and in limiting deployment of nuclear missiles, he is not likely to go out of his way to upset the Soviets by making overtures to Red China.

Yet there are pressures on the President from Congress to at least explore the possibility of opening up contracts with mainland China after 20 years of near total separation.



THIS IS THE SURGE BIN of the new ore yard and dock conveyor system being built by the Chicago & North Western Railway for its new Escanaba Ore Terminal. The bin will hold iron ore or pelletized ore to permit uninterrupted operation of the conveyor system when ships are being loaded. The bin structure is a transfer point on the conveyor system, which is beinb assembled at the bottom. From here the ore flows out onto the dock to be conveyed into the holds of lake vessels on either side of the dock by a shiploader which operates on trackage.

Steelworkers Vote On Abel

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A struggle for control of the United Steelworkers Union, the nation's third-largest, comes to an end next Tuesday.

President I. W. Abel, who won the job four years ago with a promise to give the members more voice, is being challenged by a lawyer from his headquarters staff, Emil E. Narick.

Narick contends that if Abel wins, there is a strong chance he will retire and become head of the AFL—CIO, replacing George Meany, who is 74.

The steelworkers, with 1.2 million members, is the largest in the AFL—CIO since Walter Reuther took his autoworkers out. Spokesmen for Abel say he will serve out his term if elected.

Reuther Backing

Narick says if he wins, he will re-examine the union's affiliation with the AFL—CIO. If the relationship is not beneficial, he says he will consider "other alignments."

There have been rumors, some of them published, that Reuther is backing Narick. Narick denies it. A spokesman for Reuther disclaimed any knowledge of it.

In an interview, Narick referred to Reuther as an example of the kind of leader the steelworkers need and the autoworkers union as the kind of union that the steelworkers should be.

One of Narick's platform promises would allow locals to strike over local issues, one of the important differences between the steelworkers and the autoworkers in contract bargaining.

Abel Favored

Narick's campaign has stressed his advocacy of greater union democracy and rank-and-file participation—an issue reminiscent of Abel's own campaign, partly along those lines, in 1965.

As the incumbent, Abel is considered the favorite. All 29 of the powerful district directors are backing him. The directors were split when he upset David J. McDonald four years ago. In addition, Abel controls most, if not all, of the staff representatives—field representatives on the union payroll who are an important link between the local unions and headquarters.

Narick is running on a shoestring. His headquarters is in his basement. He helps stuff his campaign mail when he is in town. In many districts he has no formal organization. He is counting on the vote of the discontented and expects to win with it.

Sides Apart In Vietnam Talks

PARIS (AP) — The latest exposition of South Vietnam's case by Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky illustrates just how tangled the issues and far apart the sides are in the Vietnam peace talks.

As the four delegations prepare for another session Thursday, the prediction, generally, is that the road ahead is long, tough and strewn with obstacles which at this time seem insurmountable. Each side says the next move is up to the other. Neither shows an inclination to move away from stated positions.

End To Aggression

Ky said in an impromptu news conference Monday that the first thing that must be discussed is, "How to end the war of aggression by Communist North Vietnam against South Vietnam."

The North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front say the first order of business must be, "An end to the U.S. aggression."

Thus South Vietnam in effect demands that its adversaries concede in advance that they are aggressors, and North Vietnam and the Viet Cong in effect demand that the Americans concede in advance they are the aggressors.

This does not prevent Americans here from expressing confidence that in the long pull something positive will result from the talks. But the operative word is "long."

Concessions

Ky said his government has made concessions and is willing to make more. He did not spell out just what the concessions have been or might be.

But Ky rejected any notion that political matters can be discussed in Paris, at least until military matters are dealt with. And Hanoi and the NLF insist that military and political matters must be dealt with as a whole, simultaneously, with emphasis on the political. This involves the demand that the NLF be recognized as the decisive factor in the South's political future.

Ralph McGill, Publisher, Dies

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Ralph Emerson McGill, the Pulitzer Prize-winning publisher of the Atlanta Constitution, died Monday night of a heart attack. He would have been 71 Wednesday.

McGill rose from life in a small Tennessee farm community to become the South's most vocal white advocate of civil rights.

He was stricken as he was leaving a private birthday party in his honor at the home of a friend, John B. Lawhorn. He was pronounced dead at Holy Family Hospital.

McGill, who became publisher of the Constitution in 1960 after 31 years with the newspaper, received the Pulitzer Prize in 1958 for editorial writing. The Pulitzer committee pointed to his "long, courageous and effective editorial leadership."

Pueblo Rescue Never Tried

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — After the capture of the Pueblo, two high ranking Navy officials ordered a destroyer to prepare to go into a North Korean harbor to board it and tow it away if necessary, an admiral has testified.

Rear Adm. George L. Cassell detailed the order Monday to a Navy court of inquiry into the Pueblo's capture by North Korea. But a further question, asking whether any actual attempt to rescue the Pueblo was ever carried out, was left unanswered.

There was no known actual attempt to remove the Pueblo from North Korean custody.

When the Pueblo was seized a little over a year ago, Cassell was assistant chief of staff for operations for the commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet, based in Honolulu.

He agreed with earlier witnesses that neither U.S. ships nor planes were close enough to help immediately but said recovery action was possible the next day.

"Adm. (John) Hyland, myself and the Operational Control Center directed the Seventh Fleet to dispatch a destroyer and position this destroyer off Wonsan Harbor in international waters," Cassell said.

Hyland was fleet commander.

"We further directed Commander Seventh Fleet to provide air cover for this particular destroyer and be prepared to recover the Pueblo either by going into the harbor and manning the ship and getting under way or towing as necessary. I forget the precise words, but she was to be prepared to recover or tow the Pueblo."

Ruppe Asks EST For U.P.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Congressman Philip E. Ruppe (R-Mich.) asked the U. S. Dept. of Transportation Monday to shift all counties in the Upper Peninsula to the Eastern Time zone.

Presently, all but Mackinac, Luce and Chippewa counties at the eastern tip of the peninsula are observing Central Standard Time, in step with Wisconsin and Chicago, but one hour behind Lower Michigan.

Luce, Chippewa and Mackinac counties have remained in the Eastern Time zone, in violation of federal law, to keep in step with Lower Michigan.

Ruppe, who represents the entire Upper Peninsula and several counties in Lower Michigan, asked the Dept. of Transportation to make the shift when it had requests from the county boards of supervisors involved.

He said Houghton, Alger, Baraga, Keweenaw, Schoolcraft and Ontonagon counties already have requested the change.

(The Delta County Board of Supervisors also requested that Delta County be placed in the Eastern Time zone).

Ruppe said he was sending telegrams to supervisors in other counties in the Upper Peninsula urging them to act rapidly.

"Once the notice of the proposed change is put forward by the Dept. of Transportation . . . there will be a waiting period of at least 30 days before the actual change takes place," he said.

With the failure of Daylight Savings Time in Michigan's election, the Upper Peninsula, which is in the Central Time zone, is faced with the possibility of having clocks one hour behind Lower Michigan all year and one hour behind Wisconsin during the summer months unless a change is ordered.

The Dept. of Transportation placed the entire Upper Peninsula in the Central Time zone last year.

Ruppe said the shift was made possible by the apparent shift defeat of Daylight Savings Time in the Nov. 5 election. A recount finished last week confirmed that voters narrowly defeated the proposal.

Air Traffic Is Volpe's Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — John A. Volpe says aviation presents the most serious problems he faces as Secretary of Transportation.

"The air traffic congestion, the lack of capacity at our airports, and all other associated problems" are his department's biggest concern, he said Sunday.

Volpe said the aviation problem is even more critical than that of mass transit.

He said long-range programs —along the lines of the program which is developing the federal highway system — should be used both to build needed airports and to improve mass transit.

January Traffic Toll Down Slightly

LANSING (AP) — Delayed death reports have boosted Michigan's record - breaking 1968 traffic death toll to 2,373 and the figure probably will go higher, State Police report.

The figure is 21 deaths higher than the provisional total reported at the end of the year.

Meanwhile, state police say at least 127 persons died during January, 1969, three fewer than in the same month in 1968. Delayed reports are expected to raise that total also.

Airport Plowing Is Growing Job

This is a difficult and costly winter from the standpoint of snow removal—but with Escanaba expanding its Municipal Airport the problem will be enlarged also in the years ahead.

"Our experience this year, particularly at the airport, has prompted us to take a good look at what we can expect next year just with normal snowfall and our expanding airport area," reports City Manager George Harvey.

"With the taxiways, aprons, and areas around the terminal biulding, we will be confronted with a huge task. To resolve these problems we will need the necessary equipment."

Back in 1967 the city made known to the Michigan Aeronautics Commission its desire for a snow - blower, grader, front end loader, sweeper and mowing equipment, said Harvey.

The city is seeking—through the Commission—surplus property which would be less costly to the city than the purchase of new equipment.

The city now has two graders and hopes to take bids about the middle of this month for a third, for which the specifications are now being written by Ken Toushak, public works superintendent.

"The estimated cost of this piece of equipment runs between $35,000 and $40,000 and it will leave the city's equipment fund with a balance in the neighborhood of $8,000," the city manager reported.

"However, it is needed equipment and it is apparent that we are a long way from receiving a grader from surplus property."

Navy Nurse Protests Wars

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A navy nurse given a suspended six months hard labor sentence for her antiwar activities says she remains "against all wars."

Lieutenant (j.g.) Susan Schnall, 25, was ordered back to duty Monday at Oak Knoll naval hospital in Oakland pending review of her sentence by the judge advocate general and the secretary of the Navy.

A six-member court-martial found Mrs. Schnall guilty of violating regulations by marching in a peace parade and helping drop antiwar leaflets from a plane over military posts. The suspended sentence also included dismissal from the service. The court-martial deliberated one hour on the sentencing.

Asked what she'll do after her Navy tour ends, she said, "I'm going to become a civilian nurse."

A Stanford University graduate, she is married to a Stanford Medical student.

Primrose Gives 9 Scholarships

William Primrose, retired postal worker and investor, has given Sister Mary Christine, principal of the girls department at Holy Name High School a check for $2,500 for nine scholarships for Holy Name High School graduates who attend Bay de Noc Community College.

The scholarships are the latest in a long series of educational benefactions by Primrose, who has helped students in many schools of the area to continue their studies.

His latest gifts are a $300 scholarship for practical nurse studies in memory of Primrose's mother, Minnie Primrose Eaton; a $275 vocational education scholarship in memory of his stepfather, Joseph Eaton (a new category of his giving); and seven $275 scholarships in memory of his father, William F. J. Primrose.

Primrose said that "the market hasn't been very good to me lately and I thought if I'd do some good it might relent. I could have gone to LaBelle France on this money, but I have to be a good citizen and help young people to get an education. This makes 8 straight years that I have given Scholarships to Holy Name High School."

Credit Baby For Saving Big Family

FLINT (AP) — A Richfield Township couple and their 11 chilren narrowly escaped death by carbon monoxide poisoning this morning, police said, thanks to warning cries of a 1-year-old baby.

Mrs Marsha Brown, 35, told sheriff's deputies she was awakened in her home by the cries of an infant girl who was staying overnight with the family. Mrs. Brown, who said she awoke with a severe headache, then awakened her husband James, 36, and all 11 children.

The deputies were summoned to the house after James collapsed and a neighbor took him to a hospital. They found flames shooting from a furance and estimated 15 more minutes of exposure to the accumulated carbon monoxide gas would have rendered the whole family unable to save themselves.

Rent Credit On Taxes Offered

A person renting or leasing a homestead is allowed a credit against his Michigan income tax.

To claim a tax credit for a portion of the rent paid for a homestead, a tenant must submit a Certificate of Rent Paid.

The Michigan Income Tax Act limits the basis for the credit to the amount paid for occupancy only, which means that the portion of rent which covers furnishings, utilities, and services must be excluded. After the adjustments are made, 20 per cent of the amount paid for occupancy only can be used to apply against the schedule to determine the amount of the credit.

The Certificate of Rent Paid for Homestead is to be completed by the landlord and signed by him. In no event shall the landlord be entitled to use the credit for taxes paid on this property for his own credit. In no event shall the landlord claim a tax credit on the same property. Even if the tenant does not claim the credit, the landlord will still not be able to claim the credit for the same property.

The Certificate of Rent Paid for Homestead is in the 1968 Michigan Individual Income Tax Returns and Instructions booklet mailed to taxpayers. If additional certificate forms are needed, they are available at the Michigan Department of Treasury, Revenue Division, office at Room 101, State Office Building, 305 Ludington St., Escanaba. The telephone number is 786-6334.

All taxpayers who rent are advised to get the certificate completed prior to preparing their Michigan income tax return, eliminating last minute confusion and possibility of a late return.

AMC Acquiring Credit Company

DETROIT (AP) — In what it described as part of "a program of acquisition and diversification designed to strengthen and broaden" its operating base, American Motors Corp. announced today it is negotiating to acquire complete ownership of Development Credit Corp.

Development Credit is an international financing company founded by American Motors Kaiser Jeep Industries and Renault, with each holding one-third interest.

It has been used heretofore to finance products manufactured and marketed by the three participants in Argentina. Roy D. Chapin, AMC chairman, said it will be used "as a vehicle for financing auto sales, both wholesale and retail in various international markets."

An AMC spokesman said in reply to a question that "at present" his company did not plan to use Development Credit to finance U.S. auto sales, but added "it could be."

American Motors Corp. sold its major U.S. financing arm, Redisco Corp., to Chrysler Corp. in May of 1967 for $29 million when AMC was strapped for cash. It handled appliance, furniture, boat and other financing, as well as auto.

Chapin said Platt A. Harburger, president and general manager, would continue to head Credit Development, which is headquartered in New York.

Heirman Reviews Farm Progress

Joseph Heirman, director of the Michigan State University extension service for Delta County, gave the Escanaba Kiwanis Club a look into the past and future in speaking to the club Monday.

In order to predict the future, one must review events of the past, Heirman began, as he covered pre-World War II years, when the lack of money during the depression had all phases of new production at a standstill. The attack on Pearl Harbor brought an immediate change, however, as an abundance of arms, munitions, as wel las food were needed immediately.

Folowing the war, arms and munitions factory tooled-up for peaceful production, he said, and the agriculture field continued at an increased pace as the United States was committed to helping some of the starving countries of the world in an effort to promote peace.

Change Is Rapid

The big population increase following the war kept the pressure on agriculture, and when a surplus seemed evident, governmental control was put into practice through such measures as the soil bank. A better distribution system at this time would have helped solve the surplus problem, Heirman continued.

Heirman said konwledge today is vastly improved over that of 20 to 30 years ago, pointing out that ideas which he proposed to farmers then are, in some cases, almost completely reversed. Things are changing so rapidly in agriculture that recommendations made only two years ago are already obsolete, he said.

Reviewing the days of gigantic potato production in Delta County, Heirman stated that there are only 15 producers left today, but that these 15 growers are producing more potatoes than the 100 plus growers in the county 20 years ago. There are also only about 200 commercial farms today, compared to the 1,490 farms in Delta County when he came, Heirman said.

Today, however, the new growing measures in use put these 200 farm producers way ahead of the total production. An error in judgement in application of commercial fertilizer, for example, could cause a tremendous financial loss a farmer, Heirman said.

Bean Crop Grown

Don't sell Delta County down the river as far as agriculture is concerned, cautioned Heirman. Over 300 acres of dry beans were produced this past year in the county. This is the area's first, but by no means the last, as the crop proved to be a real bonanza, he said.

More than 98 per cent of the beans produced in the United States had been raised in the thumb area of Lower Michigan, but like many other phases of agriculture, they are moving northward. Although this is a "ticklish" crop because of its high mortality rate, the new processes have prompted a big ftuure for the county, Heirman stated.

In closing, Heirman predicted that Delta County will soon see potato producers in the 100 to 300 acre bracket, and dairy herds of 100 or more milk cows. Beef raisers will also increase their herds to more than 200 to 300 cows, and corn production for cattle feed will mushroom along with this boom.

Pregnant Women Discriminated Against: Hamann

LANSING (AP) — An expectant housewife has charged the State Civil Service Commission with discriminating against pregnant women.

Barbara Hamann, a social worker in the Department of Social Services, said Thursday an expectant mother must resign when she leaves to have a baby.

Women cannot use sick or annual leave to have their children, she said.

On the other hand, a man can use sick or annual leave to stay at home with his wife during delivery, she said.

The Michigan State Employes Union has filed a complaint with the Michigan Civil Service Commission hearing board on behalf of Mrs. Hamann. A decision is expected within 30 days.

Perkins May Join Rock

Annexation Election Called

PERKINS—A proposal which would join the Perkins and Rock school districts will be considered by voters of Baldwin Township in a special election Monday, March 17.

The Rock Board of Education has invited the Baldwin Township public school district to annex to the Rock district.

Because it is an annexation proposal, only voters of Baldwin Township will be eligible to vote on the proposal.

Gene DeKeyser, superintendent of the Baldwin Township schools, and George Weingartner, superintendent at Rock, said the annexation proposal has been under discussion at joint meetings of the two school boards during the past several months.

Meetings Planned

DeKeyser said the Baldwin Township Board at its next regular meeting, Monday, Feb. 10, plans to schedule public meetings to discuss the proposal and inform voters of the district of the annexation plan.

Under the annexation proposal, voters of Baldwin Township will vote on two questions: annexation of the district to Rock and acceptance of 1.5 mills operating tax.

DeKeyser said passage of both proposals is needed to approve the unification of the two districts.

The Baldwin Township school district presently levies an additional 5.0 mills for operating the schools. In the annexation proposal, that 5.0 mills would be dropped and 1.5 mills will be asked.

DeKeyser explained that in annexation questions, the district to be annexed must accept the millage of the annexing district.

Presently, the Rock public schools levy a total of 5.5 mills, but 4.0 mills expire this year, leaving only 1.5 mills to be considered.

Agreements Reached

DeKeyser and Weingartner added that another millage election probably would be called later in the year to provide for financing the joint operations. If annexation is approved, any additional election would be of voters in the combined district.

In meetings of the two present school boards, several areas of agreement were reached regarding the annexation proposal:

1, The new district would be called the Perkins-Rock Area School District;

2, All personnel and facilities of both school districts would be used to the fullest extent possible, and

3, Three members of the Baldwin Township Board of Education would be appointed to the Rock Board of Education to serve until the next regular school election.

View Better Program

The Baldwin Township district presently has an enrollment of about 194 students, including about 60 in the high school program in grades 9-12. The Rock schools have a total enrollment, including Head Start students, of about 341 with about 159 at the high school.

In approving the annexation vote, the Baldwin Township Board of Education indicated it felt a better all-around school program could be offered to students of the district with the unified system. The communities of Perkins and Rock are located only about 8½ miles apart and school officials do not anticipate any major student transportation problems.

In fact, Weingartner pointed out, present bus routes overlap in some areas.

As yet, details on a total school operation in the area have not been worked out, but DeKeyser said that no building program is being planned. One possibility for the 1969-70 school year, he said, would be to send high school students from Baldwin Township to the present Rock High School building and transfer junior high students from the present Rock district into a junior high program at the present Perkins High School.

Valuations Listed

If approved, the annexation would establish a school district covering four townships and about 350 square miles. The Rock district now includes Maple Ridge Township of Delta County and Ewen and Turin Townships of Marquette County. Annexation would add Baldwin Township to that district.

Total tax valuation of the new district probably would be about $5 million for 1969-70 operations.

The current Rock valuation is $2,631,000, while Baldwin Township has a valuation of $1,759,000. Annexation would combine those valuations, both of which probably will increase when the county is equalized this spring because of growth during the past year.

City Moves Ahead On Anti-Pollution

Continuing its action toward the improvement of Escanaba's sewerage system, a project that will cost an estimated $2,600,000, the City Council Monday night adopted a resolution of agreement with the Michigan Water Resources Commission.

The agreement is for the restriction by the city of the polluting content of sewage wastes discharged into the public waters of Lake Michigan.

City Manager George Harvey advised the Council that the agreement will require Escanaba to remove a minimum of 80 per cent of the phosphorous from wastewater discharges by December, 1972.

The city must submit preliminary study and basis of design before June 1, 1969; construction plans and specifications before Sept. 1, 1970; award construction contracts and begin construction before June 1, 1971; and complete the facilities before Dec. 1, 1972.

Phosphorous Effect

The city's actions toward improvement not only of its wastewater treatment but also its water supply system involves an estimated total expenditure of $4.5 million. The city seeks state and federal funds to defray part of the cost.

The Waterways Commission points out that "nutrients released to the water environment are a contributing factor to an accelerated rate of aging of lakes and streams, as evidence by aquatic weeds and algae and that phosphorous is an essential element in such growths."

City Manager Harvey said that City Engineer John Dulek, City Water and Wastewater Superintendent Francis D'Amour, and a representative of Black & Veatch, consulting engineers, will be in Lansing on Wednesday to consult with the Waterways Commission on the project.

Present Award

Meanwhile, the consulting engineers are at work on a study of the city's water rates in connection with planning by the city to finance its share of the cost of the water and sewerage improvement project.

In other business the Council hosted the Manistique City Council in the most recent of a series of joint sessions at which mutual problems and objectives are discussed.

Present from Manistique were Thor Reque, mayor pro tem, and Councilman Harold Carlson and William Wedergartner. Unable to attend were Mayor Leo DeMars and Councilman Fred Cayia.

Other Manistique municipal officials here for the Council meeting were City Manager Robert Noe, City Clerk Ralph Ekstrom and City Attorney William Hood.

Mayor Cecil Chase welcomed them and among first items on the agenda presented a watch and congratulations to Mary Murphy, member of the Escanaba Library staff, who is retiring after 14 years of service. Mrs. Murphy expressed appreciation for the award, said that she had enjoyed her work and that she would miss her contacts with the public.

Housing Site

Present for the meeting and directing attention to the observance of National Boy Scout Week Feb. 7-13 were Scoutmaster Russell Willyard of Troop 414 and Scouts Howard and Dwayne Willyard and Michael Elliott.

The Council approved a recommendation of the Planning Commission for an exchange of land in industrial park with the Escanaba Foundation; set March 6 for public hearing and adoption of a resolution vacating the alley in the area where the Senior Citizens housing apartment is to be constructed, and noted that the alleyway will not be closed to the present residents of the area.

Next meeting of the Council was set for Feb. 17, so the Council and manager may attend a legislative conference in Lansing on the regular meeting date of Feb. 20.

Mich Con After Half Rate Hike

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. says it is asking only about half the $50 million annual increase in rates which Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley charged Monday it is requesting the Michigan Public Service Commission to approve.

Kelley proposed, instead of an increase, that the commission reduce Michigan Consolidated's rates by $10 million a year, arguing that it earned 15 per cent on stockholder investment in 1967.

Referring to Kelley's $50 million increase estimate, the company said in a statement that its testimony before the commission "shows increases in costs of approximately one-half that amount during the past year . . . and that is what we are seeking."

The company said it was "at a complete loss as to how" Kelley arrived at his $50 million figure.

"The attorney general's figures," the company said in a statement, do not reflect the cost increases which have occurred in recent months and completely ignore such items as a $9 million increase in the wholesale cost of gas which became effective in December.

"They also do not include the impact of higher taxes, higher wages and increased interest rates. Michigan Consolidated's rates have been going down for many years, while the cost of virtually everything else has been going up."

The company said the cost of gas for heating has decreased 2.5 per cent, while the (government's) consumers' price index for the Detroit area has increased 15 per cent.

Changing Churches

Something is happening in our churches that is probably the brightest hope of our solving the underlying reason for the great discontent in our lives today. This discontent takes many forms of expression and it cannot be ascribed to any one cause, but it is concerned basically with our sense of values.

We are all rejecting — or at last questioning — old values. And in the process we are in such a state of revolt that our way of living seems to come unhinged. We question the value of education, the authority of the church, the honesty of government, the disciplinary role of parents, the integrity of nations and the color of people's skin.

We're so deep into this process that we're wondering what there is left that is trustworthy? And whether our system can survive under hammer blows of such distrust?

The informed view is that this ferment is necessary and even good. We are in new situations of society. We're now citified after being historically rural. Our economy has created much more affluence and new problems for the poor. There's need for new thinking.

The old Puritan ethic which nurtured the growth of pioneer America is dying. It said: Work hard and save. Today we're seriously discussing guaranteed income for everyone in America and our credit system is necessary to keep America's productive forces perking.

This sea change has had some of its most dramatic and traumatic expressions in the church. President Nixon has pulled Billy Graham into new prominence in the White House, but priests are marrying, the numbers of persons joining religious orders is dropping, parochial schools are in great financial difficulties and the role of religion as a force in moral living is being seriously criticized in many quarters.

The Most Rev. John F. Dearden of Detroit is archbishop of Detroit and president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops. Summing up 10 years in Detroit this internationally famed churchman is not at all dismayed by what is going on in his church and many informed Catholics and persons of other faiths share his belief that America is on the threshold of new religious commitment.

The changes in the Catholic Church, says Archbishop Dearden, would have taken place whether Pope John XXIII had ever been born and whether or not there'd ever been a Vatican Council II. They were inevitable. "The whole world has been changing and we are a living church," he says.

The solution to the so-called "crisis of authority," he says, particularly within Catholicism, lies in growing reality of the church as "the people of God," rather than a bureaucratic structure in which the members owe obedience to the officials.

This is the vision of ecumenism — of world tolerance and unity — which came out of the Vatican Council to inspire Catholics and non-Catholics to a new regard for faith in a democratic new world seeking moral stability.

Although a secular world increasingly ignores religion, says Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, general secretary of the World Council of Churches, secularists (worldlings) have never been so willing to seek the churches' help in their dilemmas. "The church, however, must speak to the world with a unified voice," he says. "Even Rome cannot go it alone."

★ ★ ★

Protestant churches, he suggests, must broaden their ecumenical base, particularly to include the Church of Rome. "If you aren't ecumenical enough to recognize what has happened in the Roman Catholic Church since Vatican Council II, you are not ecumenical at all," said Dr. Blake.

"I know that some Catholic theology is utterly repugnant to most of you. I know also there are Catholics who today are suffering in order to renew their church and its theology. Frankly, I don't see as many Protestants really so deeply committeed to our own renewal."

The next three years, he said, will produce a joint effort on the part of the Vatican's Commission for World Justice and Peace and the World Council of Churches. The churches are increasingly involved in social justice. It is a better hope for our future than the results of the campus riots.

Placebos?

Government hearings into the vitamin pill industry drag on. This is a business the Food and Drug Administration would like to clamp down on, maintaining that most people don't need vitamins or other food supplements.

Manufacturers in turn have claimed that the agency has been playing dirty pool at the hearings. Latest charge is that the FDA has commissioned a public opinion survey, so rigged with true-or-false questions that it is guaranteed to reveal widespread ignorance about health.

Now, undoubtedly a lot of people are taking vitamins and stuff that they really don't need, or whose benefits they could derive from a better-balanced diet. And undoubtedly some manufacturers would just as soon have them go on buying their products.

But in the absence of proof that people are actually harming themselves — proof that has not been forthcoming — the government's role in this matter might more properly be to concentrate on the areas of education and regulation, the latter being the maintaining of quality standards and the prosecution of outright fraudulent advertising.

In view of the fact that the best that the government has seen fit to do with cigarettes, which nearly every medical authority believes are injurious if not downright readly is merely to require a mildly cautionary label on every package, the FDA's war against vitamins suggests a case of massive overkill against a doubtful enemy.

The U.N. Finally Takes a Stand

LBJ's 'Good-Guy' Budget Has Traps

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — A study of President Johnson's final budget brings a number of peculiarities to light.

In several ways the document seems calculated to saddle Mr. Nixon with Johnson policies. Other items seem set up to trap the new president politically.

The main thrust, however, seems aimed at making Johnson show up well historically in a budget he will not be required to live with. Take the matter of spending.

The Congress approved the Johnson surtax on the understanding that Johnson would cut expenditures. Johnson was expected to shelve some $6 billion in new contracts. But Congress left a loophole. It called for expenditure cuts but forgot to specify an equivalent reduction in the awarding of contracts.

Johnson has taken advantage of this loophole. His administration didn't obligate the shelved funds so long as the expenditure would fall during the Johnson term of office. But in the weeks before the Nixon take-over, the Johnson men were heavily placing new obligations—that is, letting new contracts that will come up for payment in Nixon's term.

This tactic kept spending low in Johnson's last year, but forces these heavier expenditures on the Nixon administration. By obligating the funds, Johnson forces an extension of his policies on Nixon. It is very difficult and expensive — in money and political effect—to withdraw contracts once let.

Johnson apparently has set two further traps for Nixon.

He has presented neatly balanced budgets with a surplus of $2.4 billion for fiscal 1969 and a surplus of $3.4 billion for fiscal 1970.

★ ★ ★

But in achieving these paper balances in the black, Johnson has greatly underestimated the cost of:

- The Vietnam war.
- Research and development required to carry out budget programs.
- Replenishing military arms and supplies now at a dangerously low level as the result of the fighting in Southeast Asia.
- Buildings, equipment and supplies for a wide variety of programs throughout the government.

These hidden underestimates seem designed to require Nixon to come back for more funds. They seem aimed at insuring Nixon will end up in the red, though Johnson presented him with a budget "in the black."

Watch the news for major supplementals before June 30.

The third trap Johnson has set for Nixon is in the heavily expanded "social" programs.

The Johnson budget for 1970 funnels money rapidly into a number of young, untested programs.

The experience in foreign aid, education aid and the war on poverty is that when huge amounts of money are quickly poured into unproven new programs, the inevitable result has been waste, corruption, graft, inefficiency. Current exposures of financial irregularities in New York City's poverty program are an example. Often a great deal of harm is done to the intended recipients.

This has been so in programs where the objectives were clear and the basic concepts sound. It has been even more true when the government has moved into fields in which experience was limited or objectives vague.

Yet, once in a budget proffered to Congress, it will be difficult politically for Nixon to slash away at unrealistic funding proposals. He will be accused of being insensitive to the needs of the poor, minorities and young people. Alternately, if he goes ahead at the pace outlined in Johnson's budget, the new President will leave himself open to charges of waste, bungling and mismanagement.

North plans to get to a slam the moment he hears his partner open with no-trump. He has 12 points and a five-card suit. North has some mild interest in a grand slam even though his partner's two no-trump opening shows only 21 to 22 points, but North is only interested in case his partner holds four hearts. Hence he responds with a Stayman three-club bid rather than a three-diamond Jacoby transfer or normal three hearts.

South's three no-trump rebid is a method used by Stayman, the Jacobys and most experts. It denies four cards in either major and also denies four diamonds. A three-diamond reply would show four diamonds.

This rebid simplifies matters for North who jumps right to six no-trump.

The play at six no-trump illustrates a standard safety play. South counts up his sure tricks and sees that he needs four heart tricks for his contract. He doesn't know how the hearts will divide but he can be sure of four tricks provided he does not run into a five-zero break.

He wins the spade in his own hand and plays his king of hearts. West's queen drops and now South has his four heart tricks.

If the queen had not dropped South would have gone over to dummy and led a second heart toward his jack. He would lose one heart trick but that would be his only loser in the suit. Suppose East had started with four to the queen. He could play it or duck. He would still collect one and only one heart trick. Suppose West had started with four to the queen. South's jack would force the queen. Later, South would lead a third heart from his hand and finesse against the 10 spot.

MAKE PARENTS PAY?

Playing football in front of his house, little Tommy crashed full tilt into a passing pedestrian. The man suffered painful injuries, and later sued Tommy's parents for damages.

"Their son was to blame," he contended in court. "Therefore, they ought to pay the bill."

But the court found no liability. The judge said there was no reasonable way by which Tommy's parents could have prevented this kind of an accident.

In its decision, the court was following a general rule of law. With limited exceptions, parents cannot be held liable for damage done by their children—merely because of the relationship.

★ ★ ★

However, parents may indeed be responsible if, by their own negligence, they contribute to the injury. For instance:

The parents of a neighborhood bully were warned repeatedly about his viciousness. But they made no effort to mend his ways. So when the boy threw a younger child down and broke his leg, the parents were ordered to pay damages. The court said that, even though they hadn't exactly authorized what their son did, they had encouraged him by their hands-off attitude.

Parental liability may also come from entrusting a dangerous instrumentality to a child not yet ready for that kind of responsibility.

What does the law mean by a "dangerous instrumentality"? Obvious examples are guns and cars, the use of which by children is often regulated by local statute.

★ ★ ★

But an instrumentality won't be classified as dangerous just because it is possible to hurt someone with it. Take this case:

During a game of cowboys, a small boy inadvertently struck his playmate in the eye with a toy pistol. Could the boy's parents be held liable on the ground that they had entrusted a "dangerous instrumentality" to their son?

No, ruled a court, for that would be stretching language too far. The judge said:

The toy pistol is universally accepted as a child's play thing. If the instrumentality is not interently dangerous and there is no negligence in its use, there is no liability even though, because of accident, damage is caused."

Ann Landers

Alcoholic Aided By Not Mothering Him

Dear Ann Landers: You recently printed a letter from the daughter of an alcoholic who said she would be willing to take her poor old father in if he needed a place to go — yes, even after he had caused her to suffer the tortures of hell because of his drinking. You called her "an angel." I call her a martyr with a sick need to suffer.

The chronic alcoholic often cannot recover unless the family withdraws all emotional support. They must stop mothering him, babying him and giving him sympathy. Your answer probably set back recovery for thousands of alcoholics a good many years. — F. K. M. OF THE NATIONAL COUNCIL ON ALCOHOLISM, K. C., MO.

Dear F.: There is more than one approach to alcoholism and some highly effective groups in this country do not agree with yours.

I submit that if continued emotional support encourages an alcoholic to keep drinking, support should be withdrawn.

Alcoholism is, as you know, a symptom of a deeper problem. Some drinkers need to be mothered and babied. Others need to be thrown out on their heads.

Dear Ann Landers: My sister's husband is a physician. He chose gynecology as his specialty so he can monkey around with women. It's his hobby.

This evening three couples were invited to their home for dinner. My brother-in-law and one of the wives were lollygagging all over each other. Finally they went to the basement "to look for soda water." They were gone 30 minutes. When I mentioned this to my sister, she said, "Oh, Lorna is a patient. He is trying to find out if she is frigid or frustrated." I was shocked and asked, "Do you allow him to experiment with his patients?" She replied, "I never interfere with his work."

My own opinion is that my brother-in-law is using his work to cover up for his messing around, and my sister has swallowed a big one. What do you think? — NEBRASKA

Dear Neb.: I think it's none of your business what your sister has swallowed, and if you are wise you'll keep your oar out of her water.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann: How can I get my husband to give me some help with the children? Our eldest is seven. The youngest is four months. He says the man is supposed to bring home the money and the woman is supposed to care for the kids. Since this is his attitude, I might as well kick the slob out and tell him to send his checks in the mail.

I showed him this letter and he said I had to tell you the whole story or I couldn't mail it. The reason we are not getting along now is because I poured a bottle of ginger ale over him after he yelled out an order last night. Any advice? — FED UP

Dear Fed: A father who thinks all he has to do is bring home a paycheck and a mother who pours a bottle of ginger ale on her husband need more help than I can give. Get counseling, both of you. Your kids deserve better.

Sault Will Host International 500 Snowmobile Race

By KEN FAZZARI
Sault Evening News Writer

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP)—The hardiest of the new breed of snowmobile buffs are heading toward Sault Ste. Marie this week in preparation for the International 500 — a 500-mile snow machine race scheduled for this Saturday.

The race is to be held on a one-mile oval banked track capable of holding the machines at speeds upwards of 90 miles an hour. Elapsed time for the gruelling event is expected to be about 10 hours, and officials have recommended driver teams because of the time and weather conditions.

A total of $3,200 in prize money will be awarded to winners in the Sault's 500 mile race, not counting lap prizes and prizes and plaques awarded to the fifty qualifiers for the event.

Winner Gets $1,000

The winner of the event will be awarded $1,000 and a four foot trophy. The Michigan Snowmobile Association event also will offer cash prizes to the other nine top places in the event.

Sixty-three entries were on hand for time trials which opened last Wednesday. The fifty fastest machines, based on four consecutive laps around the track, will compete for top money Saturday.

Rules for the race place no limitation on displacement, which will be up to 800 cubic centimeters. Other race rules include: A team of drivers, consisting of not less than three nor more than five will be permitted to compete for each racing team.

Any component part of the machine may be replaced subject to the following conditions, but only the driver may repair the machine when out of the pit area. No one, spectator or crew, may assist the driver in returning the machine to the pit area for maintenance or repair.

Camp Lucas

The venture became a reality last summer when a plan to utilize and develop winter resources through the city recreation department was proposed and given the go-ahead by the city commission.

The proposal contained a plan to develop an unusual winter sports area activity on city property.

The site is the former ammunition bunkers for the now defunct Camp Lucas, a U.S. Army post.

The first dirt at the site was moved in early September and on successive weekends since then the one-mile course has taken shape. The north and south turns in the track reach 35 feet and are especially designed to handle snowmobiles traveling at 90 mph.

Community effort and international cooperation have made the track a reality. Heavy equipment from virtually every Sault contractor and from contractors in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. have made their appearances at the site. One Canadian firm supplied a bulldozer and an operator for ten straight days of work on the track.

Find $187,118 On Vagrant

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Police charged the man with vagrancy. They asked him to empty his pockets. And Joseph Dunbar Wight pulled $187,118.62 out of his tattered clothing.

"I am one of those uncommon men," Wight said, "a gentleman."

Officers placed the 74-year-old man's fortune in a bank vault for safekeeping, then placed the man in a jail cell—also for safekeeping.

The charge officially was vagrancy—by sleeping in a bus station Sunday afternoon—but Wight could have gotten out of jail by paying $25 bond.

"No one ever told me I could pay it myself and get out," he said. "The police captain told me he'd like me to spend the night and I could go in the morning."

Wight said he came from Baltimore originally and was a member of a prominent Maryland distilling family. He said his fortune came from the distillery.

"My trust officers in Baltimore wanted me to let them reinvest my money with the condition I could maintain control but it was growing so much I was unable to keep control," Wight said. "So on June 1st, 1961, I converted all my assets into cash and left."

John H. Wight, executive of a Baltimore savings and loan association, confirmed he had a distant cousin named Joseph Dunbar Wight who probably had inherited a large sum from his family's Sherwood Distilling Co.

"That man has money and it is properly his," John Wight said. "He's been a wanderer all his life."

Offer Mansion To Governor

LANSING (AP) — Gov. and Mrs. William Milliken may soon be moving into a rambling 10-room home in a plush area of Lansing if a measure introduced in the State Senate by Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, would accept donation of the home by wealthy Lansing Businessman Howard W. Sober.

Sober offered the mansion, appraised at $440,000, as a governor's residence.

The mansion is "a striking residential home and would be a fitting and proper official residence for the governor of the state of Michigan," said the resolution.

It provides for the Senate and House appropriations committees to negotiate the deal with Sober, who has offered the home but wants the state to buy its furnishings.

A second Lockwood resolution sets up a committee—with Michigan's five living ex-governors as honorary co-chairmen—to accept donations of money, furnishings and other items for the home.

Former Govs. Murray D. VanWagoner, Harry Kelly, G. Mennen Williams and George Romney have agreed to the job, the resolution said.

Can Crossbreeds, Tiger Muskie, Splake Fill Bill?

By DON VOGEL
Pontiac Press Writer

PONTIAC (AP) — Will the Tiger roar loud enough?

Can a substitute steal the spotlight away from a faded star trying to make a comeback?

The State Department of Natural Resources' Fish Division is trying to come up with answers to both questions. It should be pointed out that the tiger is a different breed of cat than the one found in Southeast Asia.

And the department isn't getting into competitive sports... although some people feel that way about fishing.

The tiger in question is a hybrid fish known as the tiger muskie. Trying to take over inland lakes where the lake trout formerly held top billing is the splake, another crossbreed.

Encouraging

The splake program is in its eighth year and results, so far, have been encouraging. It's still too early to draw any conclusions from the tiger muskie plantings, according to fish biologists.

A cross between northern pike and muskellunge, tigers were first introduced in state lakes in 1966.

Using information gained from Ontario fish projects, the DNR's splake — a brookie-Laker hybrid — program was started in 1961 at Imp Lake in the western Upper Peninsula. Since then, it has been spread into two dozen other waters above and below the Straits.

"My experience has been that any lake we stocked in the U.P. has turned out all right," said John Scott, now the department's Great Lakes fish specialist.

Size A Question

"It didn't seem to matter whether the lake was large or small, relatively shallow or deep, just as long as the water was on the cool side."

Scott feels that Imp Lake now contains splake up to 10 pounds.

The question of how large they get is unanswered. Dave Borgeson, who is in charge of species management, reported that a Canadian commercial fisherman harvested an 18-pounder last fall in northern Lake Huron.

"We are experimenting with splake as a substitute for lake trout on inland waters because they grow much faster," said Borgeson. "Lake trout females take five to six years before they are mature enough to spawn."

Stocking

A splake will reach this 18-20 inch range in half the time. Although the splake doesn't reproduce, no great successes of lakers spawning on inland lakes have been recorded. Regular stocking is required.

With the Great Lakes rehabilitation program taking most of the hatchery reared lakers away from the inland lakes, it is hoped that the splake will help fill the bill.

Initial plantings were made in eight Gaylord district lakes last year. The only southern Michigan lake is Maceday in Oakland County. Splake were stocked in the fall of 1966 as three-inch fingerlings.

By early 1968 ice fishermen were taking splake up to 13 inches. A few 17 inchers from that original plant have been caught this winter. Fingerlings planted last summer have grown five inches. There is a 10-inch size limit.

Predator

Because the splake is a predator, best winter bait has been minnows. Spoons, streamers and spinners work in summer.

"We are in the process of evaluating our findings on the lake program," said Borgeson," and probably won't expand to many other lakes until the results become known."

Key to the tiger muskie experiment is the average size of a mature fish.

"This is one of the undetermined points in the program," said Henry Vondett, regional fish manager for the U.P. "We hope that it will average in size larger than a northern and have the fighting characteristics of a muskie."

Tigers are much easier to rear in the hatchery than muskies, he pointed out, and have a fast growth rate comparable to the pike. Muskies mature much slower.

Mistaken For Pike

This makes the nonreproducing tiger a valuable asset when introduced in lakes with poor pike spawning grounds and panfish stunted from overpopulation. Like any pike or muskie, it feeds on other fish.

Less than a dozen lakes have been stocked with tigers, according to district fish biologist Bill Mafon of Imlay City. He is watching over a three-year-old population in Lapeer County's Lake Nepessing.

One of the problems with the program is that "a lot of tigers get cropped by fishermen who mistake them for pike before they get legal size," said Mason.

"We suspect this might be happening on Nepessing. The lake also has a good pike population."

Test nestings of the lake last spring yielded several tigers in the 26-inch class. Most of these probably have grown to the required 30 inches by now, according to the biologist.

This is the size limit on muskies. Northern pike may be kept at 20 inches.

Should the tigers eventually take hold, but not reach a mature size comparable to muskies, the size limit may be reduced.

Police Chase His 'Chariot'

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) —"It was like riding a chariot on a bumpy road to the promised land," a Michigan motorist told a somewhat incredulous judge in Traffic Court Monday.

The defendant, Ben Thomas Reeves Jr., 25, of Detroit, was explaining why he drove several miles on only three tires in the Hampton Roads Bridge Tunnel and smashed up a police car and a private car before he stopped.

Pressed by Judge W. Vernon Hitchings Jr. for a more down to earth explanation of what he was doing with his car, Reeves replied:

"It wasn't a car. It was a chariot—like I told you."

Didn't he know police cars were chasing him?

"I thought they were following me because I was rejoicing."

Five persons, including Reeves' wife and three of his four children, were injured in the two collisions.

The blithe-spirited defendant was given jail sentences by Hitchings totaling 30 months.

Talented Businessmen Play Deadly War Games

NEW YORK (AP) — One icy day last week 105 corporate executives, professional men and academecians, all cleared to handle secret material, gathered at a baronial mansion an hour's drive north of here to play games.

They were deadly earnest; these were war games.

The group broke into units of eight or ten individuals to discuss problems and work out solutions, which later would be presented to the entire assembly and then criticized by government officials.

One of these was Joseph F. Miller, executive vice president of a manufacturers' association, lawyer and former member of the National Production Authority during the Korean War. This was one of his problems:

Material Shortage

It is 30 days after a nuclear catastrophe and time to think of rebuilding the destroyed city. But there are materials problems. Piping, for instance, is in short supply. Where can it be obtained?

Miller's group, all of its members familiar with construction, decided that it would be wise to dig it up. Frequently, he said, when a new pipeline is put down the old one isn't pulled up. Now would be the time to do so.

In addition, although the nuclear attack might have destroyed the structure in which the piping—in this case copper—was contained, some of the piping itself might still be salvageable.

As Miller left that afternoon he had in his possession a special pass and instructions on where to report in case of an actual attack. It was a successful meeting, he reported. Forty recruits had been signed up. He was elected chairman.

More Economy

This was a meeting of the New York area National Defense Executive Reserve, a group of talented individuals whose job is to be "available, ready and trained to serve government in a limited war or nuclear attack."

These are the words of Arthur Rutzen, director of the New York field office of the Commerce Department. Adds Rutzen, "The purpose of NDES is to get the economy moving as fast as possible after a catastrophic event."

There are about 4,000 members of NDER scattered throughout the country and attached to one or another government department. The Departments of Transportation, Agriculture, Interior have units, for example.

Each member attends at least one two-day session a year in his own area, plus a one-day conference in Washington. Throughout the year they are kept up to date through considerable mail from Washington.

In Demand

The government is looking for more such men, for as a Commerce Department official commented, "We never have been successful in getting the needed number of reservists for operations and backup purposes."

In the Vietnam War, the NDER remains on reserve rather than active duty because full mobilization has not been declared. Throughout the Vietnam War it has never been necessary to allocate materials or fix prices and wages.

The largest unit of NDER, some 1,600 members, is attached to the Commerce Department, primarily because the job of increasing production and distributing raw materials becomes huge in wartime. For Jonathan Rintels it is even now a fulltime job.

Rintels, director of the Commerce Department's Office of Mobilization Readiness, is scheduled to help run training sessions this week in Texas. Three more meetings are to follow in Western states.

Just in case.

HUSTON AS De SADE

NEW YORK (AP) — John Huston will star in "de Sade," the story of the 18th century French writer and sex criminal, Marquis de Sade. It is currently filming in Berlin, with Senta Berger and Lilli Palmer also starring in the effort, the first roadshow attraction of American International Pictures.

Couple Begins Married Life With 23 Children

BOSTON (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. O'Donnell are starting their married life with a family of 23 children—and the bridegroom says he wouldn't want it to be any different.

Even the priest was at a loss for words Sunday as O'Donnell, 49, a widower, and Frances Brady, a widow, took their vows with his 13 children and her 19 filling the first two pews.

"For once I'm speechless," the Rev. William Benet said as he looked out at the gathering of some 550 persons.

"Look Beautiful"

O'Donnell ignored the tradition of not seeing the bride before the ceremony, breaking away from well-wishers as she entered the Blessed Sacrament church, grasping both of her hands and saying: "Fran, you look absolutely beautiful."

O'Donnell then led his bride down the aisle.

"I'm not giving anything away—not today," he said just before they started down.

After the ceremony and a reception, the couple left for a two-week wedding trip during which relatives will care for the children.

Met At Work

O'Donnell, assistant city clerk of Boston, met his petite, dark-haired bride-to-be when she took a job in his department.

When they decided on marriage, O'Donnell bought a three-family house which they've converted into a 16-room one-family residence.

After the honeymoon, Fran won't return to her job, but will take over the bigger one of running that house.

Three of the Brady children are married while O'Donnell's three oldest girls will share an apartment of their own, so that, as Kevin Brady, 17, said: "There'll be only 17 of us kids at home—that's enough."

Matching headpieces completed their attire and they carried cascade bouquets of baby mums, tipped to match their gowns. They also wore pearl teardrop pendant necklaces, a gift of the bride.

Serving as best man was George Larson, an uncle of the bride, and groomsmen were Warren Gagnon of Hermansville and Dennis Deacon of Escanaba. Seating the guests were Vernon Vanderlinden of Milwaukee and James Deacon of Escanaba.

Mothers' Attire

Mrs. Larson wore for her daughter's wedding a gold A-line dress with bronze accessories and was presented a corsage of bronze mums.

"Party - Line" Fuel Can Leave You Cold!

It's true. "Party-line" fuel, such as natural gas, is subject to pressure drops during severe cold weather. Result? Inadequate fuel supply for your home, unhealthful chilling temperatures when you need warmth the most! Your health and comfort are totally dependent on a single slender pipeline—one company, one source of supply. But not with oil! With oil you have up to 30 days' supply stored safely on your property. And you have a number of dealers to supply you—each one of whom has great oil reserves. Keep this in mind too: modern oil-fired heating systems produce 40% more heat power per unit than other "automatic" systems. Reason? Your oil furnace burns a mixture of oil and air under pressure — much like a mighty jet aircraft engine. Result? More heat comfort for your money!

Presbytery Asks Parochiaid Be Denied By State

The annual meeting of the Presbytery of Mackinac was held in the First United Presbyterian Church of Escanaba on Friday.

The Rev. Clyde Brown of Iron Mountain-Kingsford was elected moderator of the Presbytery. The Rev. Duane Ferris was elected chairman of the Ministerial Committee. He is pastor at Boyne City. The Rev. William Brauer of Manistique was elected chairman of the National Missions Committee.

The Rev. John Duncan, chaplain at Marquette Prison, will be the minister commissioner to the general assembly, the national governing body of the Presbyterian Church whch will meet in San Antonio, Texas in May. Michael Smith, an elder from the First Presbyterian Church of Newberry, will be the lay representative.

In other actions the Presbytery affirmed the continuing need for the church camp located on Lake Michigamme, called Presbytery Point. The camp is to be developed for additional uses and some new cabins will be built to replace older, worn-out ones.

The Presbytery also affirmed its support of the cooperative ministry with the Lutheran Church in America for campus ministry at Northern Michigan University in Marquette. The Rev. Lothar Pietz, a Lutheran, is the campus pastor to Lutherans and Presbyterians.

The Rev. William Brauer presented a resolution from his session in Manistique against state aid to parochial schools. The resolution was passed by the Presbytery.

Although the Presbytery did not feel the 1970 mee ting of the general assembly should be moved from Chicago, it did express strong disapproval of police brutality during the Democratic National Convention.

The Rev. Chandler Benton, new pastor of the East Jordan congregation and the Rev. Robert Pickera of the Dickinson Areas parish were introduced and welcomed. They were installed in December.

The Presbytery will meet next April 17 in East Jordan.

Service Restored:

City Affected By Gas Outage

A mechanical malfunction at the Escanaba distribution station of the Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. early today temporarily interupted natural gas service to about 200 customers in the city.

Thomas Horton, Iron Mountain, Upper Peninsula district manager for Michigan Consolidated, said there was "momentary loss' of pressure as result of the malfunction in a guage.

The interuption occurred about 12:30 a.m. today. Temperature in Escanaba was 2 degrees below zero last night, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau.

"While the loss of pressure was momentary, it caused some pilot lights to go out," said Horton. "We immediately had our service crews out and additional crews were brought in to help restore service."

There were no delays in the restoration of service and the company will do a thorough re-check on all units where pilots lights were out, said Horton.

Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. purchased the Escanaba gas distribution system in June, 1965, and this is the first incident of its kind since service was begun, Horton pointed out.

Escanaba police reported that at 12:47 a.m. today a service door on a furnace at the home of Mary Bichler, 1100 S. 18th St., was blown open in a minor explosion. There was no fire and no damage, police said.

The police received a number of telephone calls from gas customers early today, reporting the fuel outage. Police informed callers that the firm was aware of the interuption and was restoring service.

Bessonen Named Relocation Aide On Housing Job

Escanaba Housing Commission has named Elmer Bessonen, 1005 S. 16th St., as relocation assistance agent for the proposed Senior Citizens Housing Project at Ludington and S. 5th Sts.

Bessonen will assist all families, individuals and businesses being displaced as a result of the construction of the 18 story building. There are six families, six individuals and two businesses being displaced by the project.

Bessonen says that the most critical need is for rental units to replace those presently occupied by the tenants. Escanaba has a serious shortage of rental units which will make his efforts to find rental units quite difficult, he says.

Before assuming the duties of relocation assistance agent Bessonen served as a relocation assistance officer for the Michigan State Highway Department. While employed by the Highway Department, he worked on relocation assistance programs in Lansing, Jackson and Ypsilanti.

Anyone who has a rental vacancy or knows of a rental vacancy can contact Bessonen at 786-2341 or 786-3535.

Henry Vietzke, Supervisor, Dies

Henry Werner Vietzke, 64, supervisor of Masonville Township, died unexpectedly of an apparent heart attack early this morning at his home.

Mr. Vietzke had served as supervisor of Masonville Township since around 1960 when he was first elected. He had been a member of the Delta County Board of Supervisors until last Dec. 31, when the board was reorganized under the "one man, one vote" redistricting plan.

While on the Board of Supervisors, he served on the following committees: Ways & Means, Public Affairs, Personnel and Civil Defense.

Until 1966, when he retired, he was employed as a storekeeper with Harnischfeger Corp., at Escanaba.

He was born Sept. 4, 1904, in Rapid River, and lived in Rapid River all his life.

Survivors include his wife, the former Cecelia Bolcerk of Milwaukee; four sons, Henry R. Vietzke of Rapid River, Richard, at home, Thomas of Escanaba and Terrance, stationed with the U. S. Army in New Jersey; one daughter, Mrs. Richard (Judith) Solis, at home; eight grandchildren; four brothers, William of the Whitefish area, Fred of Rapid River, Adolph of Detroit and Robert of Gladstone, and one sister, Milda, of Thompson.

The body was taken to the Skradski Funeral Home in Gladstone. Arrangements are incomplete.

Snowmobilers Can Aid Deer

If you are an owner of a snowmobile and are interested in helping deer this winter by cutting cedar and hardwood browse, you can do so by contacting the Area Forester for the Department of Natural Resources, Mike Zuidema, at Escanaba.

An area has been marked on state land south of Bark River, which, when cut, would provide forage for a large number of deer which are not fortunate enough to be near a commercial timber cutting, said Zuidema.

Snowshoes will not be necessary as all the cutting would take place within a few feet of a road on which the snowmachines can travel, he added. Axes would be adequate for the cutting as the timber is small, but chainsaws would be more desirable.

Besides feeding deer this winter, the cutting would widen the road for future improvement.

The department's fire division has started filling and grading the road to permit summer usage through an area formerly accessible only during winter months. At the present time, however, the fire division is not working on the road because of higher priority work on the fishing access site near the mouth of the Whitefish River, so snowmobiles would be necessary to reach the cutting site.

Delta Faces Future Divided

Land Use Planning Desirable, Difficult

By JEAN WORTH

Agricultural experts wish that people wouldn't buy 5 or 6 acre tracts of good farmland along roads as sites for their new ranch houses. The process has created a strip town community that reaches all the way from Escanaba to Flat Rock already on the way to Cornell and which will reach to Cornell if the trend persists.

This is land which is good for farming and there isn't an unlimited amount of such land in Delta County. There are many other areas which are well drained and highly adaptable for residence areas which are not so good for farming. The Soo Hill Area is an example.

Land Use Discussion

How can our growth be directed into the areas where it will be most productive—the farming onto good soils and the housing developments onto suitable areas which aren't so suited to agriculture?

This concern was the theme of a series of land use planning meetings sponsored by Michigan State University Extension which concluded at the Delta County Building Monday night. The series was rated highly successful attracting attendances ranging from 24 to 35 persons who represented the banks, State Highway Department, township and county government, the Escanaba and Gladstone city planning commisisons, the Department of Natural Resources, U. S. Forest Service and interested citizens.

Multi-County Areas

Ray Gummerson, Marquette, MSU Extension resource developer in the U. P., told how planning works at the county level and can be extended into multi-county areas and of the agencies concerned with planning.

Alvin House and Charles Kaufman of the MSU Natural Resources Department cited the need for coordination of planning, the need for planning for Delta County land usage, which is just getting a good start, the need for implementing plans, and the need for involving many people in the planning process.

Most Upper Peninsula counties now have county planning committees, said Joseph L. Heirman, Delta County Extension director, who presided, and it would be well if planning did not stop at county lines, but embraced multi - county areas. Highway planning, for instance, is of limited usefulness if not linked with that in adjoining counties.

Regional Organization

And such considerations are being rather rapidly extended to water and sewerage services as the concept of regional organization for development develops. This concept has its first expression in school district consolidations. Delta County was told by MSU educational experts that it should have a county school district as the ultimate goal of its planning, but that this was not realistic at the time because people were not knowing enough to see its benefits nor free enough of local super patriotism to vote for it.

The same sort of backwardness has prevented Delta County from developing a master plan for land use. The City of Escanaba contracted with Bartholomew and Associates for a plan. The City of Gladstone contracted with Williams and Works. Bartholomew bid on the Delta County contract for planning, but Williams and Works got it.

The three plans have not been coordinated and obviously they should be as one of the first orders of business for the Delta County Planning Commission, which is newly headed by Supervisor Harold Vanlerberghe of Escanaba. Supervisor Phil Miron of Ford River told Monday night's meeting that much had been learned in the series and that the Delta Planning Commission would welcome public aid in its operations. It has been organized under Michigan law.

Dickinson County has effected coordination from the beginning of its planning by engaging the same firm to do the planning for the cities of Iron Mountain, Kingsford and Norway and for Dickinson County. The result is that the Dickinson County Planning Commission has one master plan to work with, not several like Delta County's Commission.

Main Goals

The workshop session here cited the following as goals of planning:

1. Encouragement of industrial growth. The Escanaba Area is outstanding in the Upper Peninsula in this matter, but has yet to cope with the settlement and other problems created by industrial expansion.
2. Preservation and restoration of natural beauty.
3. Provision of recreational facilities.
4. Zoning of agricultural lands.
5. Planning for development of suburban areas outside cities so they do not develop into strip towns as they have in the Escanaba area.
6. Provision for transportation so people can get to work, to market, to visit.
7. Continuing the management of forests so that more wood converting plants may be created in the Upper Peninsula to get the value added by manufacture for the U. P.'s economy, which is now largely dependent upon the income from sale of raw materials. The U. P. now exports much of its wood to make manufacturing jobs elsewhere. If it could manufacture it at home area income would be greatly increased.

Council Studies Charter Changes

Discussions concerning the need for revision or amendment of Escanaba's city charter and best method of accomplishing it will be taken up again by the City Council at its next meeting, part of a continuing critical examination of the document.

City Manager George Harvey said Escanaba has "a good charter" and noted that it has had to be amended only three times in the 46 years since it was adopted.

Now the charter must be changed because the composition of the Board of Review is impossible under the provisions of the present charter, which provides for a Board of Review composed in part of three appointed members of the Delta County Board of Supervisors. Escanaba no longer has appointed supervisors.

Who should compose the city Board of Review is a question yet to be decided. In Manistique and Gladstone the City Council serves in that capacity, Harvey reported.

The city manager has advised the Council that he is recommending that the members of the Board have their pay increased from $15 to $25 per day.

Besides the question of the membership of the Board of Review, there is believed to be other charter changes that will be necessary as the study continues. Some changes could be accomplished by ordinance, Harvey believes.

Escanaba has had a charter revision study by an elected committee a number of years ago, but the proposed new charter was rejected by the voters primarily because it would have abolished the justice court in the city. A charter review study was made about two years ago by a Council-appointed committee.

Councilman Edward J. Cox suggested that the report of that study committee be considered, and said he believes the Council need not review the entire charter, suggested as one method by the city manager.

The city manager also suggested the alternative of a charter study committee being named, with a report to the Council to follow.

College Studies Student Housing

Bay de Noc Community College has started an evaluation of the availability of suitable rooms for students within commuting distance of the campus.

The College is committed to providing educational opportunity to students from Manistique through to Stephenson and as far west as Hermansville, said Dr. Richard Rinehart, president. The State of Michigan also has assigned some degree of responsibility to the College for as much service as possible to residents of the Menominee and Iron Mountain areas.

The number of students from the immediate areas requiring housing will average 50 per year, Rinehart said. Adding to the student housing problem is the area-wide commitment of the College to offer specialized occupational programs: Practical Nursing, Industrial Technology and soon, Water and Waste Water Treatment Operation.

These programs bring the requirement for student housing to 150 rooms this year and, with normal growth in enrollments, the required rooms by 1975 will be in excess of 350, according to Rinehart.

The College, in the development of a long range plan with Daverman Associates, of Grand Rapids, consulting architects, must consider finding adequate, reasonably priced housing for students beyond commuting distrance or promote the construction of student housing on the College campus, Rinehart said. Student housing must be sufficient to keep pace with current needs and the projected growth potential through 1975.

Bay de Noc Community College has an obligation to find rooms or provide student accommodations at minimum costs in order to assure the open door admissions policy for equal educational opportunity, the president added. About 20 per cent of the enrollment at the College are students from families with a minimum income for whom a reasonable room rental would not exceed $10 per week at today's prices.

The results of the student housing study will help the College Board determine whether or not it is necessary to construct cottage type housing facilities on the new campus or whether there is a reasonable expectation of satisfactory student housing requirements within the community.

Construction of student housing would not necessitate the use of any tax monies, Rinehart said. Such construction may be accomplished by the use of long term loans and are self-liquidating with payments made by the students occupying the rooms.

Gene Skerbeck Taken By Death

Eugene "Gene" Skerbeck, co-owner and manager of the Skerbeck Amusement Co., died at Dorchester, Wis., on Sunday at 11:30 p. m. of a heart attack. He was 50 years old.

He was a fourth generation member of a circus family that traveled Northern Michigan for the past 25 years and makes Escanaba and the U. P. State Fairgrounds its winter quarters.

His sister, Pauline, was co-owner and associated with him in the business that brought them frequently to Escanaba, where they are widely known. The Skerbeck family history in the circus and carnival business began back in 1857, and Dorchester has been the family home since the 1880's.

Surviving are his wife, Arlene, two sons, Joseph and William, and two daughters, Cindy and Mary, fifth generation Skerbecks in show business; and two sisters, Pauline and Mrs. Violet Greaser.

The Skerbecks have been claimed as friends by many of the communities visited by their Amusement Co., and the history of the circus in America was enriched by them with the gift of a Wurlitzer band organ to the Circus World Museum at Baraboo, Wis., a few years ago.

Funeral services for "Gene" Skerbeck will be held at Dorchester at 11 a. m. Thursday.

Snowmobiler Drowns:

Thin Ice Halts Rescue Attempt

DETOUR — William Sulewski, 50, DeTour resort owner, fell through the thin ice and drowned in the St. Marys river Sunday night while riding a snowmobile.

"Help!" Sulewski cried out as he bobbed in the freezing water about 50 yards from shore.

Sulewski's companion, Arne Stevens of DeTour, also had gone through the ice on his snowmobile, but was closer to land. Stevens managed to scramble ashore.

About 10 onlookers heard Sulewski's shouts.

A DeTour man, Bob Konings, tied two long light cords around his waist and tried to push himself out to Sulewski on a toboggan. Midway there, the toboggan went through the half-inch ice. Onlookers pulled him back to shore.

Ladders were obtained and thrust out on the ice, but they couldn't get out far enough. Police and a doctor were summoned, and a canoe was brought from DeTour, a half mile away.

Sulewski bobbed in the water, apparently kept afloat by the rubberized snowmobile suit he wore. For 20 minutes he talked with the crowd watching the drama from shore.

This Is It'

Finally, Sulewski called out: "This is it, boys. I'm not going to make it."

He was silent after that. The canoist made his way out to Sulewski about 45 minutes after the accident. But Sulewski was dead. Douglas Batho, Chippewa county coroner, ruled that death was due to drowning.

Stevens, the other snowmobiler, was not hospitalized. He told authorities that he and Sulewski had been returning from a restaurant by traveling along the river.

Sulewski, who was married and had one grown son, was the United States customs inspector in DeTour.

Delta Red Cross Chapter Reports On Activities

The Delta County Chapter of American Red Cross rendered assistance in 21 instances during January, according to a report to the quarterly Board of Directors meeting by Mrs. Ralph Hamilton.

In addition, there were 16 inquiries and requests for information by servicemen and their families. Also assisted were two families who were burned out of their homes. Four persons were called to donate blood for emergency cases.

Mrs. Hamilton reported that 42 pints of blood were used by Delta County patients in December at St. Francis Hospital and 60 pints were replaced for Delta County patients to other hospitals. A report on use of blood in January had not been completed.

The next visit of the bloodmobile is scheduled Feb. 25-26-27. The unit will be at the James T. Jones School in Gladstone Feb. 25 and at the Teamster's Hall in Escanaba the other two days.

The next regular board meeting was scheduled for April 1. Anyone interested in serving on the board is invited to attend.

Purdue Advances In Cage Ratings

By The Associated Press

The Purdue Boilermakers climbed into the Top Ten and four other teams in the group gained ground today in The Associated Press' major-college basketball poll.

Meanwhile, UCLA maintained its unanimous grip on first place after lifting its unbeaten record to 16-0 with victories over California and Stanford. All 30 on the national panel of sports writers and broadcasters voted the Bruins No. 1. They have held that position all season.

Purdue, 14th a week ago, advanced five places to ninth as a result of its 95-85 overtime conquest of 12th-ranked Ohio State in Big Ten Conference upset. The Buckeyes remained in the same spot.

Davidson's unexpected 76-61 setback by another Big Ten team, Iowa, also resulted in a switch of several places. The Wildcats slipped from fourth to sixth while Kentucky and St. John's of New York each rushed up one position, to fourth and fifth, respectively.

North Carolina, 14-1, held second place while Santa Clara remained third. Santa Clara lifted its mark to 17-0 last week by routing Hayward State 103-72.

LaSalle, 16-1, climbed two positions to seventh while Villanova, another Philadelphia team, also jumped two notches to eighth. Illinois, beaten by Ohio State, slipped three rungs to 10th.

Major gains in the Second Ten group were registered by Tulsa, Kansas and Columbia. Tulsa climbed two spots to 11th. Kansas also advanced two places to 13th while Columbia leaped from 18th to 14th.

Duquesne, a 76-66 loser to Detroit, slipped from 11th to 15th. New Mexico State, eighth a week ago, tumbled all the way to 16th after losing twice to New Mexico, unranked last week, but now in 18th place. Marquette slipped one notch to 17th while Dayton, No. 19, and Colorado, No. 20, complete the rankings.

South Carolina, 19th a week ago, dropped out of the ratings as a result of its 87-76 loss to Florida State.

Eskymos Suffer 1st Mat Defeat

Experience paid off in victory last night as the Marquette Redmen were able to snap the Escanaba Eskymo winning streak at seven with a 26-25 triumph in a wrestling match held at the Escanaba Area High School gym.

Escanaba fell behind early in the match, 8-0, after Mike Frasher was decisioned 15-0 in the 95-pound weight class and Mark Skradski was pinned in 103-pound division.

The Eskymos got the ball rolling in the next three matches as Dan Vader decisioned his opponent 13-6 and Dale Ford and Steve Makoskey notched pins, putting the Eskymo matmen ahead 13-8.

The next three matches went to Marquette as Mike Makoskey of the Eskymos was decisioned, 7-2; Mark Blazek was decisioned, 12-0; and Rich Carlson was pinned in a match stopped because of an injury to Carlson. The Eskymos were trailing at this point, 19-13.

Things started loking better again for the Eskymos as they went back out in front, 23-19, on a pair of pins by Terry Brayak and Terry Scheenemen. Brayak, the Eskymo's 154-pounder and co-captain with Ford, put his opponent to the mat in 47 seconds.

Duane Scheuren got ahead of his opponent in the next match and was trying for a pin when he was reversed and pinned with 13 seconds remaining. Now the Eskymos found themselves behind once again, 24-23, and everything boiled down to the final match of the night.

Terry Williams, the Escanaba 248-pound heavyweight, was set to meet 290-pound Dennis Nerela of Marquette. After grappling around on the mat for three periods, the two heavyweights ended in a tie, thereby giving both teams two points and the Redmen the match, 26-25.

Escanaba's next match is a conference date with Kingsford on Thursday night at Kingsford. The Eskymos lead the Great Northern Conference with a 4-0 mark followed by Iron Mountain, 3-1; Kigsford, 2-2; and Holy Name, 0-4.

Lombardi Quits Pack; Official Okay Delayed

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Vince Lombardi, eager for a taste of ownership in a pro football club, said Monday he is quitting the Green Bay Packers to apply his fabled coaching spurs to the sluggish Washington Redskins.

Officials of the two National Football League clubs withheld immediate confirmation that the Packer general manager was becoming executive vice president and chief coach of the Redskins, and that he would get a block of stock in the Washington club.

While the Packers' executive board was schaduling another meeting today to review Lombardi's announcement, reports circulated in Washington that he would get at least five per cent of the Redskins' stock.

That would help satisfy an ambition by the NFL's most spectacular coach to own a part of the organization he directs, a role deprived him under Green Bay's Community ownership arrangements.

Redskins' President Edward Bennett Williams holds five per cent of his club's stock. The majority is held by long-time owner George Marshall, and is administered under a court trust by Williams.

Lombardi, who had often said being Green Bay coach and general manager simultaneously was too time consuming, was hestitant Monday to speculate on the future of Otto Graham, Washington's coach and general manager.

"I haven't the slightest idea about Otto," Lombardi said.

Williams acknowledged that his club and Lombardi "have had conversations looking toward his coming to Washington," but that "Graham hasn't been dismissed."

Redskins official withheld formal comment while the Packers discussed whether to free Lombardi from a contract that didn't have an expiration date until 1974.

"This is not an ordinary matter," said Dominic Olejniczak, president of Green Bay Packers Inc. "After all, there is only one Lombardi."

Lombardi said there was "no ill feeling" between him and Green Bay influencing his decision to abandon the club after 10 years as general manager and nine as coach, during which he piloted the team to an unprecedented five NHL championships in only seven years.

"It's been a great 10 years," he said, but adding: "Like anyone else, you always hope to own something."

That, he said, was the deciding element of the Washington package—a substantial position of equity."

Rumors which cropped up a few days ago insisted Lombardi was being offered stock from the estate of the latee Leo P. DeOrsey, representing 13 per cent of the Redskins.

The Packers are a non-profit organization in which no one gets ownership.

Lombardi said there had been no discussion with Green Bay as to his successor as general manager. "I've asked for my release from the Green Bay Packers," he said. "There's always a possibility a snag could develop."

On the other hand, he said after Monday's meeting with Packer executives, "Everything is fine. There's no problem with the board. I've just got a contract."

The contract with Green Bay, unless waived, barred him from coaching another club during the pact's lifetime.

Washington, which hasn't had a winning team since 1955, is in a situation that could tempt a coach with the Lombardi temperament for winning.

"The challenge is not in maintaining, but in creating," he said.

One of his best-known expressions: "Winning isn't everything; it's the only thing."

Graham Awaits Career Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — Otto Graham today was right back where he started.

Three years ago, Graham was playing golf in California when he was lured out of the minor college ranks into the pressure cooker of pro football as coach of the Washington Redskins.

Graham was back in California today on another golfing vacation as he awaited a new Redskins' coaching change—with him as the victim this time.

Vince Lombardi, the fierce perfectionist who drove the Green Bay Packers to five National Football League championships in seven years, was ready to replace Graham as coach and general manager of the Redskins, picking up the title of executive vice president and part owner in the rich agreement.

Redskins' President Edward Bennett Williams was tight-lipped and brusque in an abrupt news conference that lasted less than five minutes before he stalked out Monday.

Williams would say only that he had talked to Lombardi "looking toward his coming to Washington."

He promised an announcement soon—but couldn't say when.

As for Graham, Williams insisted. "Otto Graham hasn't been dismissed."

Graham, playing golf at Palm Desert, Calif., refused any comment.

Graham's contract is due to run for two more years at $50,000 or $60,000 annually, and he has a option to renew for five more years.

The Redskins were 5-9 under Graham last fall. He came close to a winning season his first two years, but fell short each time.

Graham, 47, the quarterback in the golden era of great Cleveland Browns' teams, was in many ways a thorough opposite of the harsh Lombardi.

Graham gained a reputation for lacking the brutality to be a tough, top football coach. Insiders told stories of fines threatened against players but never carried out.

Redskins' players eyed Lombardi differently.

"It frightens me in a way," said tackle Jim Snowden.

"He desires perfection," said linebacker Chris Hanburger.

"He forces football players to do what they are supposed to do by themselves," added guard Vince Promuto.

Sonny Jurgensen, the veteran quarterback who led the NFL in passing in 1967, said he would look forward to playing under Lombardi and added, "He's done something I admire. He's been a winner."

Lake Superior Wins 12th Game

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — Lake Superior state swept to its 12th basketball victory against eight losses Monday night, whipping Hillsdale College 101-88.

Led by Brad Shouldice's 28 points, the Lakers broke away from Hillsdale in the second half, after leading by just two points, 49-47, at the half.

Gary Crowley had 31 points to pace the Hillsdale attack.

Burdette Joins Montreal System

MONTREAL (AP)—Lou Burdette, a former major league baseball pitching star who achieved World Series fame in 1957, has joined the Montreal Expos of the National League as minor league pitcher instructor, it was announced today.

Denny McLain and Mickey Lolich appeared as entertainers in Las Vegas during the off-season.

Monroe Sparks Bullets' Victory

By The Associated Press

The Pearl was dull for most of the game but he shone in the third quarter—and so did the Baltimore Bullets.

Earl "The Pearl" Monroe scored only a total of three points in the first, second and fourth quarters Monday night but he threw in 12 in the third to spark a game-breaking rally as the Bullets defeated Chicago 132-122.

In the third period, the Bullets who increased their lead over idle Philadelphia to 2½ games in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division, outscored Chicago 20-8 to open up an insurmountable 100-87 lead.

Kevin Loughery led Baltimore with 35 points. Bob Boozer topped Chicago with 27.

In the only other NBA game, Bob Rule's 38-point output powered the Seattle SuperSonics to a 114-107 success over the Los Angeles Lakers. The victory was the Sonics' first over the Lakers this season in four meetings.

Seattle broke the game open early in the fourth quarter, forging ahead 95-86 after Los Angeles entered the period in front 81-78.

Rule was benched with 8:08 left when he incurred his fifth foul. He returned with 2:15 remaining and Seattle leading 107-103.

Baskets by Len Wilkens and Tom Meschery made it 111-103 with 1½ minutes to go and sealed the verdict.

Wilt Chamberlain led the Lakers with 33 points.

In the lone American Basketball Association game, the Miami Floridians overcame an early 12-point deficit and turned back the New York Nets 123-110.

Maurice McHartley and Don Freeman supplied most of the scoring impetus as the Floridians built a 62-56 halftime lead and pulled away from there.

Freeman was high with 26 points while McHartley finished with 21—19 in the first half. Willie Somersset topped the Nets with 25.

Area Cagers Advancing In Great Lakes Stats

GLADSTONE — Only Dennis Dahlman of Sault Ste. Marie and John Bergh of Newberry were able to retain their leads in statistical departments of the Great Lakes Conference while new leaders took over in two of the departments.

Dahlman maintained his slim lead over Gladstone's Steve Nelson, 23.2 to 21.8, in the scoring department while Bergh hung on to a narow margin in the rebounding department over Greg Talus of Negaunee, 98-93.

Taking over top spots for the first time this season were Marv Miller of Manistique and Bob Pike of Newberry in field goal percentage and Tom Hammar of Ishpeming in free throw percentage.

Both Miller and Pike are ripping the nets at a 54 per cent clip while Dahlman is in third place at 53 per cent. Miller has connected on 21 of 39 field goal attempts and Pike has been hitting on 20 of 37 attmepts from the field. Dahlman actually has hit the most field goals among the top twelve, 68 of 128.

Hammar has connected on 37 of 45 attempts from the gift line for 82 per cent and Mike Nettleton of Munising has hit 27 of 34 for 79 per cent and second place along with Mike Healy of Ishpeming who has 15 of 19 charity shots for the same percentage.

Area players receiving ranking this month besides Nelson and Miller are Mark Weber of Gladstone, fifth in scoring and fourth in field goal percentage; John Watson of Gladstone, fifth in field goal percentage and Tom Jenerou of Manistique, eleventh in rebounding. In addition to the number two spot in scoring, Nelson is also ranked ninth in field goal percentage, sixth in free throw percentage and sixth in rebounding.

Crusaders Host Emeralds

Perkins, Powers Hoping For February Christmas

Tonight could turn out to be Christmas all over again in Perkins and Powers-Spalding for the towns' local prep basketball team and the gifts may be first places in respective conference races.

Perkins (6-2) holds a slim lead over Bark River-Harris (5-2) by percentage points in the Central League race and the third place team, Big Bay de Noc (5-3), plays host to the Broncos tonight. The Black Bears will not go into the game looking for a chance to help Perkins because they must win themselves if they are going to keep their hopes alive in the conference race.

The Black Bears have now defeated four straight conference opponents and have put themselves back into contention for the league crown. They must win their four remaining league tilts in order to clinch at least a tie for the championship.

Bark River, on the other hand, has lost its last four games after holding a commanding lead for much of the season. Lucky enough for the Broncos though, is the fact that three of the losses have been to non-conference opponents. Bark River will go into the game sporting a 6-6 record.

The big game in the Skyline Conference will pit the Carney Wolves against the Channing Railroaders at the Kingsford High School gymnasium. Channing holds a slim lead over National Mine and Powers in the league race and have had trouble notching victories lately after going undefeated through the first half of the season.

Carney holds a 6-4 mark in the league standings and still is not out of the championship picture but needs to win tonight if their hopes are going to remain alive.

Powers has been the strongest team in the league lately as they have notched six straight conference victories since losing to National Mine on Jan. 3.

On the local cage scene tonight is the game between the Holy Name Crusaders and the Manistique Emeralds at the Holy Name gym beginning at 8:30. The Crusaders (6-3) will be out to try to extend their two - game winning streak against the Emeralds (1-10) who will be trying to snap an eight-game losing streak.

The Crusaders have topped Gladstone and Kingsford in their last two outings and have been up and down in previous games this season. Coach John Butrymowicz's five has been looking for another scorer to help share the load with Al Grabowski and Terry Dufour who have been the most consistent point producers in the Crusaders' nine games. Grabowski is ripping the nets for an average of 19.6 points per game and Dufour has been hitting at a 16.6 clip.

Manistique's big problem all season has been the lack of a consistent scoring attack as most of the players on the squad have been the leading scorer at one time or another during the year. When one scorer is hot, the others are cold and no definite scoring pattern has been set up in the Emeralds' 11-game slate thus far.

A special attraction of tonight's game will be the North-South exhibition clash between the eighth graders of the six teams participating in the Grade School League basketball program. Players from Flat Rock, All Saints, and St Thomas will play for the North squad and the players for the South team will come from St Anne's, St. Pat's and St. Joe's The game will begin at 6:45.

Other area games tonight will find Perkins at Felch and Rock at Trenary.

Holy Name Teams Notch Victories Against Munising

A pair of teams from Holy Name High School both captured victories last night in athletic activities held at the school gymnasium.

In the opening contest of the evening, the Holy Name freshmen basketball team ran their winning streak to 8-0 with a 70-33 win over the Munising freshmen; and in the nightcap, the Holy Name varsity wrestling squad notched its second vitcory of the season by downing the Munising grapplers, 24-22.

The Crusader wrestlers are back in action Thursday night against the Marquette Redmen in the Holy Name gym at 6:30 and the Frosh cagers travel to Menominee Friday night to tangle with the Maroon frosh.

Horton Wants $100,000 Pact

LONDON, Ont. (AP) — Willie Horton said Monday he is asking for a $100,000 contract to play baseball with World Champion Detroit Tigers this year.

The 26-year-old outfielder said in an interview his $100,000 asking price was not prompted by the figure 31-game winner Denny McLain sought just prior to the 1968 World Series.

"I'm not concerned what McLain signed for . . . I'm looking after myself. I came from a large family. I know what it's like to do without."

Horton was one of 14 children. His father and mother were killed in a 1964 auto accident.

Horton, who played for a reported $35,000 last season, indicated Monday the Tigers would have to be much closer to his demands than they were with McLain's.

McLain asked for $100,000 and received a reported $65,000.

"That figure isn't something that just popped into my head after we won the pennant and World Series. It's been on my mind since the All-Star break.

"Like I said, I came up the hard way and I know what it's like to do without. That figure had better be pretty close to $100,000 before I sign."

Horton was here for the London Sportsman's Dinner in aid of crippled children.

Jim Fanning, general manager of the National League Montreal Expos, was the main guest speaker.

Kansas Reaches 1,000 Win Mark

By The Associated Press

The number 12 was an Orange Bowl nightmare for the Kansas football team but 1,000 turned out just grand for their basketball counterparts.

And the Jayhawk cagers, ranked 13th in the latest Associated Press poll, not only gave the gridders an arithmetic lesson but a study in contrast, as well.

A twelfth man on the field cost Kansas an Orange Bowl victory against Penn State, but the cagers went into action against Oklahoma State Monday night minus one man, Olympic star Jo Jo White, and came away with a 64-48 triumph to become the second college team to reach 1,000 wins.

Two of the nation's Top Ten teams were in action Monday night and one of them was Kentucky, which reached the 1,000 milestone last month. The fourth-ranked Wildcats made it 1,005 with a 105-93 Southeastern Conference victory over Auburn.

Third-rated Santa Clara trailed at halftime for the first time this season but rallied to turn back upstart San Francisco State 72-59 for an 18-0 record.

In other key games, 15th-ranked Duquesne downed Fairfield 85-75 and No. 20 Colorado nipped Missouri 80-79 in overtime.

The country's two top scorers had somewhat similar games. Pete Maravich the leader, made 14 of 33 shots and 31 points in Louisiana State's 95-71 romp over Mississippi State. Runner-up Calvin Murphy of Niagara shot 13-for-38 and 33 points but the Purple Eagles lost to DePaul 83-74.

"We're happy we achieved the 1,000-victory mark, regardless of Kentucky's claim," said Kansas Coach Ted Owens, noting that Kentucky went back into ancient newspaper files to unearth three previously overlooked triumphs. "It is a significant milestone and makes us proud of Kansas' winning basketball tradition."

Phil Harmon, a 6-foot-4 senior, took over for White, who used up his eligibility. But Owens switched from a White-directed attack to a three-guard offense.

"You don't replace someone like Jo Jo White," he said. "We just hope we're mature enough that we can adjust."

Mathis Scores Unanimous Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Buster Mathis, the one-time blubber boy, has turned into a bruiser and the proof is etched today on George Chuvalo's carved-up face.

Mathis, of Grand Rapids, Mich., bloodied Chuvalo over 12 brutal rounds Monday night and scored a unanimous decision over the game Canadian heavyweight in the second half of a Madison Square Garden boxing doubleheader.

In the opener, Emile Griffith of New York celebrated his 31st birthday with an impressive unanimous 10-round decision over Andy Heilman, a last-minute substitute for injured Doyle Baird.

Mathis, enraged at some low blows in the opening round, charged at Chuvalo to retaliate and twice shoved referee Harold Valan out of the way in attempts to return the fouls.

In the 11th round, a right lead opened a deep cut at the corner of Chuvalo's left eye and the wound pumped blood for the rest of the fight. It took 10 stitches to close the cut.

Hayes Maintains Big Scoring Lead

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association's individual scoring race has a new runner-up this week, but he doesn't pose an immediate threat to front-running Elvin Hayes.

San Diego's Big E, with 1,645 points and a 29.9 average, is running more than 300 points ahead of Los Angeles' Big E, Elgin Baylor, who has 1,343 points and a 26.3 average.

Bob Rule of Seattle is third 1,341 points although Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati has the third best average, 26.0, but only 1,318 points.

Wilt Chamberlain of the Lakers continues to lead in field goal percentage with .574 to .563 for Jerry Lucas of Cincinnati. Chamberlain also is the top rebounder with 1,145 and a 20.8 average to 1,049 and 20.2 for Bill Russell, Boston's injured player-coach.

Larry Siegfried of the Celtics has connected on 239 of 274 free throws for a league-leading .872 mark. Robertson is tops in assists with 482, an average of 9.5 a game.
